

There is no simple and concise way to view where political candidates sit on certain issues compared to each other.